Coach,

I am excited to announce that the Lutheran Football Coaches Association will be selecting an All-America team for the 2008 football season.

In the summer of 2007, the LFCFA was formed by several coaches who wanted to connect and unify the efforts of Lutheran coaches across the nation. The group would now like to recognize the efforts of players in our Lutheran High Schools and select a team based on their achievements on the field.

If you have player(s) who are worthy of being declared All-American, simply forward their names, statistics, and post season honors to Doug Kuhlmann or Joel Brase at Dkuhlmann@lhssc.org or Joel.Brase@DenverLutheranHighSchool.org. Our board will then convene in January to make our decisions. Obviously, it is impossible to choose an absolute team, because not many Lutheran High Schools play other LHS in their seasons or have much knowledge of competition, size of schools, ability, etc. However, via word of mouth, film study, college scholarships, etc, we feel confident that we will give credit to those deserving players and formulate both a first and second team, offense and defense. You have until December 15 to send in your selections. The team will be posted online by January 30. Certificates will be sent to your school address to be given to your players.

You are encouraged to check out our website at www.lfcafootball.com.

If you have any questions regarding the 2008 Lutheran High School All-America Team or about the LFCFA please contact one of the board members via their emails below.

Blessings on the remainder of your 2008 season.
